Bangkok is one of Asia's most cosmopolitan cities. Created as the Thai capital in 1782 by the first monarch of the present Chakri dynasty. Bangkok is a national treasure house and Thailand's spiritual, cultural, political commercial, educational and diplomatic centre. Major tourist attractions include glittering Buddhist temples, palaces, timeless "Venice of the East" canal and river scenes, classical dance extravaganza, and numerous shopping centres.

The Asia-Pacific Symposium on Applied Electromagnetics and Mechanics (APSAEM-08) is the fifth symposium devoted to topics on electromagnetic phenomena, both low and high frequencies, and applications in electrical, mechanical, and communication systems. The purpose of the symposium is to exchange scientific results and to promote the friendship between the countries in Asia-Pacific region. Topic of interest for submission include

- Computational electromagnetic
- Characterization and modeling of electromagnetic materials
- Non destructive testing
- Electromagnetic and electromechanical devices and systems
- Applications in power, electronics, and control systems
- Electromagnetic compatibility (EMC)
- Terahertz applications
- Electromagnetics and electromechanical education
- Inverse problems
- Magnetic sensors and measurement
- Applications of electromagnetic phenomena - MEMS
- Electromagnetic environment and control
- Micro waves and antennas
- Applications in telecommunication
- Miscellaneous
